Stamp Machine To Be Placed in Central Post Office

A new coin-operated stamp vending machine will be installed in the lobby of the main postoffice building in this city, it was announced today by Postmaster William R. Kraft.

The machine will consist of three units and will dispense five-cent stamps for a nickel, two five-cent stamps for a dime, and five three-cent stamps for a nickel and a dime.

The postmaster said that the postal department in Washington has already approved his request for this machine, and delivery is expected soon. He said that Kingston is very fortunate to get approval on such a machine since they have not been allotted to many offices in the country.

This vending machine will not displace any postal clerks, he said. It is intended primarily for the convenience of patrons who want stamps after the windows are closed and to help speed operations during rush hours.

Kraft said his request for the new vending machine was in line with the policy at the local office of improving service. Such improvement has been necessary because of the great increase in the volume of business done by that office since the close of the war.

Dewey May Counter Truman Contention By Demanding Government Spending Cut

Washington, Aug. 16 (AP)—President Truman's charge that Republican tax cuts built new inflation fires seemed likely today to prompt a campaign demand by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for a drastic cut in government spending.

Mr. Truman's attack on the Republicans—made in a disputed estimate that the nation faces a $1,500,000,000 deficit—was due to be broadened with his promised statement on the credit-curbing bill passed by the special session of Congress.

In what Republicans long have insisted would be a Democratic campaign document, the President was expected to say the G.O.P. lawmakers gave him too little and too late powers to hold down the cost of living.

This then shapes up the inflation issue between Mr. Truman and Dewey—an issue the Republican presidential nominee is reported to be ready to meet head-on. Their division of opinion seems likely to be as sharp as that between them on tax cuts.

Mr. Truman said in his budget review that an "ill-timed" tax re-

Annual Police Game at Stadium Here Wednesday

Will Be a Regular Game Between the Colonials and Stamford—Other Features Listed

The annual baseball game sponsored by the Kingston Patrolmen's Association of the Kingston Police Department will be a regular Colonial League attraction between the Colonials and Zeke Bonura's Stamford "Pioneers" Wednesday, Aug. 18, at municipal stadium at 8:30 p. m.

The game represents a departure from established policy of the past when the K.P.A. engaged the Newburgh department and later sought all-star local aggregations against the New York Yankees.

A colorful boxoffice attraction in Zeke Bonura and the public's solid support of the annual police attraction is expected to result in a new attendance record for organized ball in Kingston.

The 1948 contest is dedicated to Chief of Police Ray Van Buren, who has been a member of the police department for 27 years.

The official program for the game carries a message of greeting from Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk to the police and the Colonial League. A simple tribute is paid to the three members of the department who died during 1947, Chief Ernest A. Boss, Capt. Frederick C. Stoudt and Capt. James V. Simpson.

Other features include a summary of the brilliant Kingston High school pitching career of Clark Mains and a brief history of the Kingston Colonials.

The program also points out that since the Kingston Patrolmen's Association joined with Alexander S. "Pop" Fuhrman in a movement to provide outlets for youth recreation, the membership of "Pop's" Boys Club has grown from a dozen to more than 500.

A sizeable portion of the proceeds of Wednesday's game will be used in furthering the work of the Kingston Boys' Club and additional funds will be used to send three deserving youngsters to Camp Loyaltown at Hunter.

The three young boys are James Van Buren of 165 Cedar street; Lewis Davis, 41 Boulder avenue; and Norwood Humphrey of 9 East Pierpont street.

Ten Are Injured In 2 Accidents at Highland Saturday

Occupants of Three Other Automobiles in Another Mishap Escape Uninjured

Ten persons were injured slightly in two accidents Saturday afternoon in the Highland-Marlborough area, while occupants of three autos in another mishap escaped uninjured, according to the state police at Highland.

Three occupants of an auto operated by Paul Spector of Brooklyn reported injuries after it was in collision with a car driven by Paul Schloss of Arizona, on Route 9W at Highland about 4 p. m. Saturday.

Schloss was headed south on the route and the other car north attempting to turn into Route 44-55, when they collided, the police said.

The injured were Rose Jankowicz, 33, Linda Hoffman, 6, and Fannie Cohen, 55, all of Brooklyn. The child suffered an abrasion of the upper lip, the elderly woman, contusions of the left knee and the other, contusions of the forehead and left knee, the report said.

Seven persons reported slight injuries in another two-car collision at the intersection of the Lattin-town Route and West Road near Marlborough at 5 p. m. Saturday. A car operated by Patrick Tarsio of Newburgh was headed south on the Lattintown road and the other, driven by Louis Budnick of Marlborough, was going west on West road when they collided, and the Budnick car overturned, the report said.

Tarsio suffered abrasions of the forehead and James Purcell, of Newburgh, who was riding with him, suffered abrasions of the knees and contusions of the forehead.

Five persons riding in the Budnick car reported only minor injuries, the police said.

The other accident Saturday afternoon was about four miles north of Highland on Route 9W and involved a coupe driven by Bernard Turenne of Suffern, a sedan operated by Frank Rinaldi of New York and a sedan driven by Norman Cloutier of Norwalk, Conn.

Turenne said he was trying to avoid a collision with the two other autos, the police said, and he swerved off the road and upset. The Rinaldi car, passing the Turenne car, and the Cloutier auto sideswiped.

Turenne and Rinaldi were headed south and the other car was traveling north on the route at the time, the report said. None of the occupants of the three autos reported injuries.

George Buck Hurt When Blast Ruins Cruiser Mary Jane

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 16 (AP)—Burned in a fire which destroyed his 42-foot cruiser at dock here, a 56-year-old yachtsman was reported in fair condition today at Vassar Hospital.

The victim is George B. Buck, of 27 Linden avenue, Larchmont, N. Y., actuary for the New York city and New York state retirement systems.

Damage to the yacht, the "Mary Jane," was estimated at $25,000.

Buck was enveloped in flames yesterday when a gasoline explosion touched off the fire. His son, George Jr., pushed him overboard to extinguish the flames, and then the son and a Poughkeepsie Yacht Club steward dove into the water and pulled out the father, who was unconscious.

The older buck suffered first and second degree burns of the face and body.

The injured man's wife, Mildred, was on the dock when the explosion occurred.

The son said the blast came while the craft was taking on gasoline at the yacht club. The tank overflowed, he said, and gas fumes ignited as the father stepped on the starter.

The "Mary Jane" was one of a group of boats which left Larchmont Saturday for a two-week cruise to Lake Champlain.

Retailers Report Meat Boycott Is Working Upstate

Meatless meals were on the menu in many upstate homes today as housewives launched a "meatless" week in protest against high prices.

In Syracuse, Albany and Utica retail dealers reported they already had felt effects of the strike. Meat counters in some stores were closed.

Meanwhile, the campaign spread to Saranac Lake where Mrs. Donald Doolittle reported she had met with "good response" in her effort to launch a "chain telephone" campaign to enlist women in the boycott.

At Syracuse the owners of one meat market announced they would close their store temporarily. Don and Frank Creno posted in their store window a sign reading, "This market closed temporarily due to housewives' current boycott. Will reopen as soon as market conditions will warrant."

The president of the Albany retail meat dealers' association said there was "no question that it (the boycott) has had some effect on sales." But, Frank Eastman remarked, prices on ham and pork have advanced in the face of the buyers' strike.

In Utica the meat counters of a few stores were closed and some decline in meat sales was reported.

The Syracuse Post-Standard, after a survey of meat stores, reported that orders for today were off as much as 50 per cent. Dealers told the newspaper they noticed a dropoff in sales Saturday. Some said they had reduced their orders to wholesalers in anticipation of the organized resistance.

The leaders of the housewives' campaign are urging their recruits to buy meat only three times a week after this week.

Falk's Body Found In Waters Above Les Pommiers Pool

Vredenburg and Belmore Make the Discovery as Broad Search Is Underway

The body of Frank Falk, 44, who had been missing from his home on the Flatbush road since Thursday morning, was found in a pond above the swimming pool at Les Pommiers Hotel about 5 p. m., Saturday by County Investigator Clayton Vredenburg and County Identification Officer Leonard Belmore.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was summoned and after an investigation reported that there was no evidence of foul play and returned a verdict of death by suicide. He said that Falk had been suffering from a nervous upset for about the past eight years. No autopsy was ordered.

Falk was the subject of a wide-spread search by sheriff's office men and state police, who were later joined by a number of volunteers. Saturday morning 20 Boy Scouts from Camp Tri-mount, East Jewett, joined the search under the direction of Ulster-Greene Council Executive Myron Keefe, after arrangements had been made by Carlton Taylor, scoutmaster of Troop 26, Post 26, Ewen. Members of Ulster Hose Company, friends and neighbors also volunteered to help locate the missing man.

His body was spotted floating about 50 feet off shore in the pond, which is located on the road between Flatbush road and the old alignment of Route 9W. The pond was about seven feet deep in that point and it was necessary to launch a small boat to bring the body ashore. The sheriff's men were assisted by Henri Rethies, proprietor of Les Pommiers.

Frank Falk was a member of the painting firm of Frank Falk, New York, and a Pine Hill-Kingston bus were in collision at about 10 a. m. Sunday on the Onetara Trail near Mt. Tremper.

Orville Ballard, 39, of Fleischmanns, driver of the bus, placed Hoffman under arrest on a charge of improper operation of a motor vehicle. He was arraigned before Peace Justice William C. Weyman.

Pravda Says U. S. Attache Got Russian Information

Moscow, Aug. 16 (AP)—Pravda charges that an assistant U. S. naval attaché in Moscow was nabbed receiving secret military information from a Soviet official and was hustled out of Russia by demand of the Soviet government.

The charge by the Communist party newspaper exploded amid indications that the three western power envoys will renew their talks at the Kremlin today on the east-west crisis.

The assistant naval attaché, Lt. Robert Dreher of Oil City, Pa., was "caught with the goods in his hand," Pravda said yesterday. Both Dreher and the Russian official involved confessed, the newspaper said.

The United States embassy was told that Dreher "had been caught in espionage," Pravda said, adding:

"The evidence was so undisputable that the embassy did not even try to conceal it and, without protest, fulfilled the demand of the ministry of foreign affairs that Dreher immediately leave the Soviet Union."

President's Statement Brings Angry Flood of Talk; Distortion Is Term Used

'Facts' Are Cited President Uses Defense Program as Example of U.S. Need

Washington, Aug. 16 (AP)—President Truman's forecast that the government will be $1,500,000,000 in the red next June loosed an angry flood of Republican charges today that he had deliberately juggled his figures for political effect.

G.O.P. lawmakers insisted the treasury will wind up between five and six billion dollars to the good. They said there definitely will be money left over to pare down the national debt and possibly to cut taxes again.

Mr. Truman's sharply worded mid-year budget review blamed the Republicans "ill-timed" $5,000,000,000 tax cut for putting the government back in a financial hole.

He said federal spending in the year ending next June 30 will hit a near peacetime record of $42,200,000,000—more than $6,000,000,000 over the outlay last year.

And instead of the record $8,400,000,000 surplus of last June, Mr. Truman declared, the treasury faces an operating deficit of $1,500,000,000 and a return to "definite financing."

Actually, even if his figures pan out, the treasury's books will show an "adjusted surplus" of $1,500,000,000. That's because Congress specified that $3,000,000,000 of last year's excess funds should be shifted to this year's accounts to help cover foreign aid costs. Mr. Truman called this a "government bookkeeping device" to yield a "paper surplus."

"Indeed," the Chief Executive asserted, "as long as the present fiscal outlook prevails, we may face an expanded debt even in a period of high national income when financial prudence clearly would indicate continuing debt retirement."

The hour for Mr. Truman's budget review to be made public had not yet arrived when Republican leaders hurried out their rebuttals for simultaneous release.

"Just another campaign speech," said Chairman Bridges (R-N.H.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee. To which Chairman Millikin (R-Colo.) of the Senate Finance Committee added:

"Another of the weird distortions which are coming from the White House while its occupant is a nervous candidate for reelection."

Bridges insisted that instead of the $1,500,000,000 deficit Mr. Truman predicted, there will be a surplus "that will be not less than $6,000,000,000."

Millikin said even the President's own figures when viewed "on the basis of present realities" indicate a surplus of "over $5,000,000,000."

'Facts' Are Given

Mr. Truman listed these as the "outstanding facts" of his budget review:

"1. Budget expenditures for the fiscal year 1949 are now estimated at $42,200,000,000—substantially higher than was estimated in January—largely because of increases in the national defense program, increased benefits for veterans, and increased tax refunds.

"2. The tax reduction enacted in April will cause receipts for the fiscal year 1949 to be substantially lower than was estimated in January. Budget receipts are now estimated at $40,700,000,000.

"3. As a result, an operating deficit of $1,500,000,000 is now anticipated for 1949, compared with the record surplus of $8,400,000,000 in 1948. This sharp reversal eliminates one of the principal factors that have been restraining further inflation.

"4. The public debt was reduced by $6,000,000,000 in 1948. Present estimates indicate that no further reduction in the total debt will be possible in 1949.

"5. As we look ahead it is clear that our national and international responsibilities make impossible any sharp reduction in government expenditures in 1950—indeed it is likely that there will be some increases. It is plain, therefore, that the ill-timed tax reduction of last spring has left the government facing a period of deficit financing."

Bridges' Prediction

This is the way Bridges arrived at his $6,000,000,000 surplus prediction:

"In estimating expenditures at

Painting to Be Given To Lawton Park Visitor

A 16 by 20 inch oil painting by Ray Nickerson will be given to one visitor to the Ulster County Artists' Association art exhibit at Lawton Park as soon as the number of visitors registered reaches 2,500. It was announced today by Alexander S. Fuhrman, director of the exhibit. By 9 p. m. Sunday, 2,240 persons had signed the book.

The person to receive the painting, which was donated by Nickerson, vice-president of the artists' association, will be selected at random from the numbers given each visitor. The person who selects the number will not know the corresponding name.

The art exhibit will remain open from 1 until 9 p. m. daily, including Sundays, through August 23, when the group will relinquish the cabin to be used by another organization for a clam-bake. Admission is without charge.

Because the exhibit will close August 23 instead of August 31, as previously announced, exhibitors are requested to remove their paintings between August 20 and 22 after 1 p. m. on those days, Fuhrman said.

A special meeting of all interested persons has been called at the Lawton Park cabin for Monday, August 23, at 7 p. m., to discuss the establishment of a permanent exhibit and art school in this city.

Mrs. Perry Decker of Catskill, regional director of the Professional Artists' League, met with members of the Ulster county association at the park Saturday evening to discuss plans for local observance of American Art Week, November 1 to 7. It is expected that eight radio programs will be produced in the Hudson Valley in connection with this observance from stations in Kingston, Hudson, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh.

Funeral services will be held at the Olive Bridge Methodist Church Wednesday, August 18, at 2 p. m., conducted by the Rev. Austin Conklin. Burial will be in Tongore cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Victoria Raczowski was held from her late residence, 22 Second avenue Saturday morning at 9 o'clock thence to the Immaculate Conception Church where a high Mass of requiem was offered at 9:30 for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Joseph J. Slezacek. Responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir assisted by Miss Theresa Gehring at the organ. The Immaculate Conception Rosary Society called at the home Friday evening and was led in recitation of the Rosary by the Spiritual Director, Father Slezacek. The society also attended the funeral in a body. Burial was in Mt. Calvary cemetery where the Rev. Father Slezacek gave the final blessing. The bearers were David Post, Robert, Richard, Joseph McConnell, John Darwak and Walter Madajewski.

Financial and Commercial

By WILLIAM D. HORGAN

New York, Aug. 16 (AP)—The stock market loafed along today with only minor price changes.

Upward tendencies appeared during early trading but demand was feeble at best and soon faded away.

Corporation news, much of it good, was virtually ignored. Obervers continued to blame the Berlin situation for the market's stagnation although many voiced the hope that recent low trading volume was a sign that large-scale selling had just about run its course.

Declines running to a point or so were posted for U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Studebaker, Schenley, American Can, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, Standard Oil (N. J.), and United Airlines.

A bit higher were Woolworth, Boeing, American Telephone, Electric Power & Light, American Smelting, Dow Chemical, Philip Morris, Radio Corp., and American Express.

Marked up in the curb were Bidsboro Steel Foundry, Glen Alden Coal, and Technicolor Solar Mfg. and Creole Petroleum slipped.

In the over-the-counter market several U. S. government issues advanced a few 32ds of a point.

The belief is widely held in the financial district that the basic trend of the market is still upward and that recent weak spells have been merely minor interruptions. With the Berlin issue disposed of, it is hoped, trading enthusiasm will return.

Two Persons Are Killed On Moonlit Georgia Beach

Ormond, Fla., Aug. 16 (AP)—A pretty Georgia stenographer was raped and slain and her 23-year-old escort shot in the head at close range on a desolate moonlit beach here in what authorities described as one of the most heinous slayings in the state's history. Sheriff Alex Littlefield said the young couple—24-year-old Mary Hucks of East Point, Ga., and Gregork Blount of Lexington, Ky.—were shot and killed Saturday night on a lonely beach about a half-mile from the nearest habitation.

The young woman's bruised and beaten body was found in a clump of palmetto brush. Her bathing suit had been wrenched from her body, and footprints in the sand indicated a fierce struggle, Sheriff Littlefield said.

"There is no doubt that she was raped," he added. "Blunt's body was found on a blanket spread upon the white beach sands, and that the young man apparently had been slain while he slept."

The Volusia county sheriff said his investigation indicated that two slayers were involved in the crime and he theorized that they were sex perverts on the prowl.

He said the slayers had been ordered for information—

C. of C. Party at Williams Lake on Thursday, Sept. 9

Frederick J. K. Ertel, chairman of a special Chamber of Commerce Outing Committee, announced today that plans have been completed for a big "stag" party for Chamber members at Williams Lake on Thursday, September 9. Notices will be sent out next week and all reservations must be in by September 4.

The informal outing will start with clams, hamburgers, sandwiches, and refreshments at 3 in the afternoon, followed by baseball, horseshoe pitching, swimming, and other games. At 7:30 a dinner will be served in the main dining room with some entertainment and prizes. There will be no formal speeches, chairman Ertel stated.

The outing committee consists of Mr. Ertel, Raymond Garrahan, Edmund P. Rochford, Alfred Seltz, and Roy Sultif. Reservations can be made at the Chamber office.

Hanson Is Sentenced

Hudson, N. Y., Aug. 16 (AP)—John F. Hanson, 21, of Haverhill, Mass., was sentenced today to serve from 15 to 45 years in Clinton prison for robbing a New York store on his plea of guilty to a charge of first degree robbery in a hold-up here last year. County Judge William E. J. O'Connor sentenced Hanson as a second offender after District Attorney Thomas F. Kennedy filed an information with the court stating that Hanson, a young man, had been convicted of stealing an automobile in Essex county, Mass. Hanson and Herbert W. Peters, also of Haverhill, were accused in a grand jury indictment of taking $104 at gunpoint from a clerk in the General Worth Hotel July 20, 1947.

Four Czechs Will Stay

London, Aug. 16 (AP)—Four more Czech Olympic athletes decided today against returning to Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia. Their decision brought to at least eight the number of Olympic competitors refusing to go back to Communist homelands. Two Czechs and three Hungarians disclosed yesterday that they intended to stay in England, but one of the Hungarians later went back to Hungary. The Czech Committee for political refugees, which announced the action, said the athletes withheld the names for fear of retribution against relatives still in Czechoslovakia.

Tests for Paint

Cincinnati, (AP)—A small steel ball spinning at a speed of 1,800 miles an hour is helping the navy find a paint which will stay on jet planes. The experiments are under way at the University of Cincinnati. The ball spins at 2,400,000 (m) R.P.M. and once the equipment is turned off, the high speed and lack of friction keep it twirling for more than a month, according to Dr. Walter Soller. Conventional paint will not stay on jet planes which travel faster than sound, Dr. Soller said, adding that as the paint peels it creates serious disruptions to the airflow.

Two Are Arrested For Having Policy Slips in Kingston

Two persons were arrested in this city today, one charged with selling "policy" slips and the other for possession of the slips, the police reported.

Following an investigation, Acting Detective William Krum arrested Harry Gage, 46, of Hoffmann street, charging him with violation of Section 974 of the penal law, specifying that Gage allegedly had in his possession a book representing or being a record of chance, share or interest in numbers, commonly called "policy." The information signed by Krum further charged that Gage sold one of these slips and represented himself as an agent. The arrest was made on Henry street near Broadway at 11 a. m. today.

In city court today, Gage pleaded innocent of the charge and the case was adjourned until Wednesday, August 18. Also arrested was Arthur Lee Williams, 37, of 20 Chambers street, charged with possession of policy slips. He pleaded guilty as charged in city court and paid a fine of $5.

In other city court cases, Joseph Landenberg, 33, of Cheektowaga, pleaded guilty to a public intoxication charge and was fined $10, and Nicholas Astor, 51, of Corona, L. J., forfeited $5 bail on a charge of passing a red traffic light in this city Sunday morning.

Saturday afternoon in city court, Judge Matthew V. Cahill exonerated Mrs. Daphne Taylor of a charge of driving without an operator's license after she had produced the license in court. A second charge against Mrs. Taylor, who is 49 years old and lives at 60 Cedar street, was adjourned until Monday, August 23, after she pleaded guilty. The charge was that of driving while intoxicated, for which she was arrested Friday evening following an automobile accident on Henry street near Broadway.

'Cleanup' Clinic Plans Being Made

Plans for several "clean-up" clinics are expected to be completed this week in Ulster county's immunization drive against rabies. It was announced today by the Ulster County Rabies Advisory Council.

The final scheduled clinic Aug. 14 added 570 more inoculations and brought the total to 7,889, or 67.4 per cent of the desired total. Totals from veterinarians and a clinic slated for Thursday at Pine Bush at the Orange-Ulster line, are still to be reported and it is hoped that the drive will bring a total considerably above the 70 per cent goal.

The council urges all dog owners who have not yet had their dogs immunized to do so to protect themselves, their dogs and the entire community.

The Council expects to apply for designation August 31 so that all immunized dogs will be free to run at large on September 31 and be ready for the hunting season, October 16. Meanwhile, plans are made for one more regularly scheduled clinic to be held at the New Prospect Town Hall in Pine Bush this coming Thursday.

Friday's clinic break down for Big Indian shows that 72 of the 78 dog owners who received pointment cards brought their dogs to the clinic there. In St. Remy 97 of those 120 who received appointment cards came to the clinic, and 226 dogs were inoculated at Gardiner, 176 at Stone Ridge and 99 at Hurley.

can Veterans of World War II closed its third convention. Frank Searens of Maspeth was elected commander. The Amvets also called for federalization of the National Guard, abolition of the Electoral College, broadening of civil rights legislation and abolition of the United Nations veto in cases of aggression.

TONGUE TWISTERS

A thousand words that we employ
May be our daily speaking joy
Not all perform in friendly way . . .

Admitting this, I like to say
To all of us, they're useful friends
Designed for work that never ends
I mean that words play silly tricks
When syllables refuse to mix.
If regularly must be used
Iammer, stop, and look confused
And "conscienceless" sets in my throat
Emerging on a treble note.

"Particularly" curves the tongue
"Inimitable" should be sung
And when I say "Blood pressure" fast
The "P" comes first.
Have you a few unfriendly words
That sound a bit like mocking birds?
Put them where this is useful fun . . .
I hope I'm not the only one.

I.T.U. Is Told T-H Politics Are Hurting Standards

Milwaukee, Aug. 16 (AP) — The International Typographical Union swung into five successive days of business sessions today with a charge that "T-H politics are getting into your standard of living."

The statement was made by President Woodruff Randolph, Indianapolis, who last night told a forum attended by 300 I.T.U. members "this country is in the hands of big business—they have our legislative halls in their hands, are getting adequate response from the judiciary."

"The good is it to vote on wages and working conditions if you can't enforce them?" he asked.

The I.T.U., whose convention had been in recess since Saturday afternoon, has been found guilty of violating the Taft-Hartley Act in five decisions by National Labor Relations Board examiners.

The latest ruling Saturday by Arthur Leff, was in an action brought by the American Newspaper Publishers Association. The Leff decision, which found I.T.U. in violation of the Taft-Hartley Act by reason of its insistence on closed shop newspaper industry, nevertheless gave the union "some important encouragement," said General Counsel Gerhart Van Arkel.

"Leff finds our recent newspaper agreement at New York completely lawful," Van Arkel told a press conference, "and that takes a lot of spacious argument out of the hands of Chicago publishers, who claim proposals made by our Chicago local for settlement of its strike are illegal."

Van Arkel said the report contained "certain inconsistencies of reasoning which will furnish basis for argument before the N.L.R.B."

Printers Declare Lockout Is in Force

New York, Aug. 16 (AP)—Union printers declare that a "lockout" exists at the New York Journal of Commerce, daily business, financial and shipping publication.

The declaration—voted yesterday 312 to one—is subject to approval by the International Typographical Union, who are attending their convention in Milwaukee.

Laurence H. Victory, president of the I.T.U.'s New York Local No. 6, said the international officers might "declare a lockout" immediately, ordering the printers off the job, or might intervene in the local wage and hour dispute.

Victory said he had advised members of the I.T.U.'s Journal of Commerce Chapter, numbering about 65, to continue to report for work as usual pending action by the international officers on the local's lockout vote.

The publication's president, Joseph Ridder, said the local's action constituted a strike threat.

The newspaper, he said, is preparing to continue publication with a non-union composing room and substitute printing methods.

A union request for a temporary $9 a week increase while negotiations continue with the Journal of Commerce has been turned down by the newspaper. A $9 a week increase recently was granted to I.T.U. printers on 12 major New York city daily newspapers.

Starting off at 9 a. m., two poultry judging contests will be held. One is for club members only while the second will be for 4-H poultry members and members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club.

The contest is a result of the lively interest shown by the Kiwanians in the 4-H chick program they sponsored this spring.

Home Service of Ulster Red Cross Has Been Busy

The three years since the end of active hostilities of World War 2 have been busy ones for the Home Service Department of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross. During peacetime as well as wartime, Home Service acts as liaison between the military and civilian spheres.

The primary responsibility of Home Service is to assist servicemen and ex-servicemen and their dependents in meeting those needs which arise from the man's service in the armed forces.

Through its two-way communications service, Red Cross is the only agency enabling families to secure first-hand information about their servicemen should they become ill and, also, by verifying home situations at the military's request, to make possible the serviceman's presence in an emergency. In some instances, the Red Cross provides confidential social histories and home conditions reports which the military uses to help the serviceman make a good adjustment.

Since the Ulster County Home Service workers have made a special study of government regulations and legislation affecting servicemen and ex-servicemen and their families, they are equipped to assist with claims for pension and other government benefits.

With a knowledge of their community agencies and with the resources of the Red Cross at their fingertips, it is possible for the Ulster County Home Service workers to advise and help those who turn to it in time of need.

Unusual Travel Exhibit at Fair Here Wednesday

Models of Aircraft and Ocean Liners; Also London Newspaper and Orchids

In its efforts to provide the public with new and unusual developments in the field of travel, Greenwald's Travel Service of Kingston will open its second annual travel exhibit at the Ulster County Fair on Wednesday. Plans have been completed to display models of the newest aircraft in operation and to be placed in operation during the coming year. Other features will include models of trans-Atlantic ocean liners, newspapers published in England the day before the exhibit, orchids picked in Hawaii on August 16 and displayed 48 hours later in Kingston, and a host of smaller units that will aptly illustrate the current trends in travel.

The long-awaited Boeing Stratocruiser has now become a reality. Currently going through its 500 hour pre-delivery test flights, the "Clipper America" soon to be delivered to Pan-American Airways will shorten the New York-London hop from 14½ hours to 12 hours, and the San Francisco-Honolulu run will be reduced 3½ hours to an eight and one-half hour flight. One of the first bronze models of this plane will be unveiled at exhibit at 10 a. m. Descriptive brochures will be available to visitors at the exhibit during the morning hours.

A model of the "New Constellation" which flies from New York to Miami in four hours and to Bermuda in three hours will be displayed together with full plans for making scale models in home workshops. Used by many of the American and foreign flag carriers, the Constellation three-engine tail has been seen in every climate and country and has developed an outstanding record for safety.

A model of the 300-mile-an-hour DC-6 featured on the transconti-ental runs of American and United Air Lines will be at the exhibit. This plane was among the first to provide automatic pressure control, comfortable cabin temperatures at all times and the first to be built of 70S, a new metal that is stronger and lighter than alloys heretofore used.

"Mauretania" Scale Model
Representing the water phase of passenger travel will be a model of the 35,000-ton Cunard-White Star liner "Mauretania." Constructed in 1939, this 22 knot ship saw heroic service during the war carrying many thousand U. S. and British troops. Since her return to service in 1947 she has been filled to capacity on her trans-Atlantic trips. During the past winter she visited the Caribbean on five cruises, bringing back to travel-hungry American tourists, excellent opportunities to enjoy the famous Sunshine Cruises featured by Cunard for years past. Since it is quite probable that she will again see cruise service during the coming winter, the appearance of the model at this show will create much interest on the part of winter vacationists.

Orchids From Hawaii
To demonstrate the air service that is available from New York to the West Coast and thence to Hawaii, Greenwald's Travel Service has offered to present awards to some of the outstanding prize winners at the county fair. In conference with Ed Bower and Miss Brundage of 4-H Clubs and Mrs. William Powers of the Home Economics Department, it has been decided to present a five-orchid corsage to the Class I winner (the 4-H leader with the best educational exhibit), and to the Sweepstakes first prize winner in the home economics department. Class 188 and Sweepstakes second prize winner will each receive a single Princess Aloha orchid. These orchids, flown to the United States especially for this exhibit by Pan American Airways, were grown in Java and are that are showered with 400 inches of annual rainfall. Somewhat smaller than the hybrid orchid, they are believed by many to be the loveliest in the world. They are called Princess Aloha to distinguish them from those that are commonly called Vandas, inasmuch as Princess Alohas are the aristocrats of the species.

The "London Times"
One of the world's finest examples of journalism, the London

Times, is being flown from England by B.O.A.C. This in itself is not unusual but the paper that was printed on August 17 in London and distributed in Kingston the following day will make this an outstanding feature of the fair. Since the number of copies will be limited, those who wish this edition as a souvenir are advised to contact Mr. Greenwald at the exhibit for free copies.

ULSTER COUNTY FAIR

There is increasing interest and enthusiasm on the part of exhibitors and other residents in the annual Ulster County Fair and Farmers' Field Day to be held at Forsyth Park on Wednesday of this week. Featuring entertainment as well as educational benefits, this annual county-wide event attracts thousands from the city as well as residents from the communities throughout the county.

The Ulster County Agricultural Society offers $8,000 in cash for agricultural entries. These include the showing of cattle, horses, poultry, fruit, vegetables, homemaking, Granges and 4-H Clubs. In addition to these displays there also are industrial exhibits, which cover a wide field.

Attractive to all members of the family, the young people have an opportunity to enjoy an athletic program. And last but not least are the ever popular picnic lunches.

Events such as this fair and farmers' field day with its extensive farm and home exhibits and industrial displays have done much for Ulster county farmers and other residents alike. The farmer is encouraged to improve and modernize his farm and the residents have an opportunity to learn something about modern farming methods.

If it could be successfully arranged, an Ulster County Fair lasting more than one day would prove even more profitable.

The committee in charge deserves the thanks of all for staging this annual event of great importance to all local residents.

As long as inflation goes on, we might as well face it with the sense of humor of the butcher in Kalamazoo, Mich., who gave an aspirin tablet with each purchase of meat.

RECORD FOOD CROP

After this year, if the Department of Agriculture is correct in its predictions, American farmers will have new records to shoot at in the volume production of crops. The department thinks the total of all crops harvested this year will be well above the previous high mark, set in 1946.

The stimulus of high prices has kept crop acreage high, and Dame Nature has spread her bounty over almost all of the country in the form of first-rate crop weather. Consequently the nation's granaries and storehouses will be bulging with food this fall.

Informed prognosticators, both in and out of government, hold out little hope that all this food will be offered for sale at appreciably lower prices, however. Food prices are tied in with the whole inflated economy, for one thing. For another the government is committed to support the prices of several basic commodities at levels not much below the present market.

But won't it be comforting to know that all that food will be on hand, just in case, even if you can't afford to buy any more of it than before?

Two men were arrested in New York for fighting in an airplane. We've heard of people hitting the ceiling in a quarrel; they must have gone through it.

AID FOR THROTTLEBOTTOM

Throttlebottom has a friend. Congressman George H. Bender of Ohio would have the government provide an official residence for vice-presidents. The man who may be the next President should not, in Bender's opinion, have to live in a boarding house or tiny hotel room. Actually few, if any, vice-presidents have done this. Most have achieved dignified lodgings, but few have had what they need more, a real job.

Presiding over the Senate is the one duty assigned. Some Presidents have called their possible successor into cabinet meetings to learn what it was all about. Harding invited Coolidge, and F.D.R. did so with Garner. Roosevelt also gave Henry Wallace special assignments, like the friendship mission to South America. Such tasks depend, however, on the caprice of the President, who often belongs to a different wing of the party and therefore distrusts his understudy.

The fact remains that, devoid of useful work and overlooked as he generally is,

THE CAMPAIGN

Five candidates for the Presidency will be campaigning with vigor this year. President Harry Truman, who has already entered the campaign by an "inspection trip," by an "extemporaneous" acceptance speech, and by calling a special session of Congress; Thomas E. Dewey, who has thus far been on "vacation"; Henry Wallace, who represents the Soviet view of American life; J. Strom Thurmond, who speaks for the Dixiecrats who are fighting for States Rights; and Norman Thomas, the grand, old perennial who complains that both the Republicans and Democrats steal his campaign planks, which, in time, is generally true.

The Republicans expect to win the Presidency; the Democrats are striving for the Senate; Henry Wallace hopes for a Republican victory so that he and his Communist allies may capture the Democratic machine for 1952; the Dixiecrats want to guarantee the defeat of Truman, and Norman Thomas hopes to roll up a huge protest vote.

The Dixiecrats expect to carry South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas. They hope that they may be able to do some business in Louisiana. They also hope that because of their anti-Truman activities, Dewey will carry Virginia and Texas and possibly North Carolina and Tennessee.

The fight between the New Dealers and Ed Crump may help them in Tennessee where Carroll Reece, the Republican candidate for the Senate, is extraordinarily popular.

If all this is not mere guesswork, Thomas E. Dewey will be elected President of the United States. The Republicans are, however, going to have a tough time carrying the Senate unless there is a landslide and unless the Dixiecrats will combine with the Republicans for purposes of organization.

This has nothing to do with the popularity or unpopularity of the 80th Congress but is part of our constitutional system by which one-third of the Senate is elected every two years, and the third that comes in 1948 is not so good for the Republicans.

The terms of the following Senators expire on January 3, 1949, and their places must be filled in the 1948 election: John Sparkman, John L. McClellan, Edwin C. Johnson, C. Douglass Buck, Richard B. Russell, Henry C. Dvorshak, C. Wayland Brooks, George A. Wilson, Arthur Capper, John Sherman Cooper, Allen G. Ellender, Wallace H. White, J. Leverett Saltonstall, Homer Ferguson, Joseph H. Ball, James O. Eastland, James E. Murray, Styles Bridges, Kenneth S. Wherry, Albert W. Hawkes, Carl A. Hatch, Josiah W. Bailey, E. H. Moore, Guy Gordon, Theodore F. Green, Burnet R. Maybank, Harlan J. Bushfield, Tom Stewart, W. Lee O'Daniel, A. Willis Robertson, Chapman Revercomb, Edward V. Robertson.

The Democrats will seek to defeat C. Wayland Brooks of Illinois, John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, Homer Ferguson of Michigan, Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota, W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas (now perhaps a Republican), Chapman Revercomb of West Virginia. Should they succeed notably in this enterprise, they can wipe out the Republican nominal majority of six, but even worse, they would remove from the Republican Party some of its most competent men. The loss of Brooks, Ferguson, Ball and Revercomb would be very serious, indeed.

Furthermore, Tom Dewey would find himself in the untenable position of introducing a program for the reorganization of the administration, to make it efficient and an executive unit, hampered by an unfriendly Senate. It would also be impossible for Dewey to possibly four years to revamp the foreign policy of the country, to make it a focused agency of national action instead of a hodge-podge of improvisations. Fortunately, the Republicans will have a Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, who has had a vast experience in this field. Nevertheless, he will be faced by what went before and by the need of not damaging the prestige of the country. Therefore, he will require the Senate that will be cooperative. The defeat of the aforementioned Senators would then be a national calamity; yet the Democrats are emphasizing that rather than Truman. Among the lesser candidates, Wallace hopes to gain a following among those who care for neither Truman nor Dewey; in a word, the protest vote. He may be shocked to discover how much of that vote will go, as usual, to Norman Thomas.

That Body of Yours

RHEUMATISM PAINFUL AND COSTLY

Although rheumatism is the oldest disease known to man there are, and always have been, millions of sufferers from this crippling ailment. Perhaps it is because it does not kill immediately or even over a length of time that many look on it as something sent to man which he must accept, just as he has to accept the weather.

In a recent article it was shown that, by investigation as to the cause and treatment of rheumatism, about one-half of rheumatic patients were cured and 15 per cent relieved. As rheumatism causes much illness and more absenteeism than any other ailment, it stands first as a cause of chronic illness.

In "Annals of Medicine," Dr. P. S. Hench, in a description of "The Campaign Against Rheumatism," states that in every country in which there was a survey the same findings were made: (1) Rheumatic diseases outranked all others as a cause of chronic illness; (2) rheumatic diseases annually involve each country in great expense; (3) adequate facilities for the care of most rheumatic patients are non-existent. In the United States, as elsewhere, the total army of rheumatic victims is relatively neglected.

The figures show that other diseases are given much more consideration everywhere and certainly prove that we are not fully aware of how much suffering and loss of time is caused by rheumatism. For example, for 680,000 tuberculosis patients in the United States there are available about 100,000 free beds, and $100,000,000 for cure and research, but for the 6,850,000 rheumatic patients there are available only about 200 free beds and $200,000 for care and research. Thus, though there are 10 times as many rheumatic patients as tuberculosis patients, the latter have 500 times more beds and money.

Naturally our hearts go out more to patients with cancer, tuberculosis and infantile paralysis, but sufferers with rheumatism suffer much pain and lose much time from work and more should be done for them.

Chronic Rheumatism and Arthritis

Sufferers with chronic rheumatism and arthritis will find many helpful suggestions as to diet, heat, massage, and other aids in Dr. Barton's booklet entitled "Chronic Rheumatism and Arthritis." Throttlebottom may become President at any moment. If he had an official mansion, more Americans might become aware of his existence and take more interest in improving his quality.

Never Underestimate a Woman

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington — When Charley Skouras came to the United States as a Greek immigrant boy forty years ago, no one ever figured that someday he would become head of the largest movie-theatre chain in the world.

Nor did anyone ever dream that last week he would help the President of the United States dedicate a special "Youth Month Stamp"—a stamp commemorating the month of September and the drive which the theatres of America and most of the communities of America will make toward wiping out juvenile delinquency.

Charles Skouras is heading that "Youth Month" drive. Sometimes I think many of the Americans who have become U. S. citizens by adoption, who know first hand what it is to live in the old world, are more appreciative of the U. S. A. than those born here who take this country for granted. Certainly this is Charley Skouras' viewpoint toward the U. S. A.

When he first landed in New York, Skouras got a job in a Greek restaurant paying him 50 cents a day, plus meals and the privilege of sleeping on bags of coffee in the rear at night. Later he moved to St. Louis, where he worked as a bus boy. His two brothers, Spyros and George, were also in St. Louis hotels, worked hard, saved their money.

The bartender who employed Spyros made him recite the Star-Spangled Banner from beginning to end, every morning before he began work—which is probably more than most native-born Americans can do at any time. Spyros can still recite it, all the verses, and later gave the bartender an interest in the Shaw Theatre in St. Louis.

World's Top Movie Magnates
The Skouras brothers got into the theatre business when a friend offered to sell them a decrepit St. Louis nickelodeon. They had saved $3,500 and gambled it all on the then relatively new movie business. Fifteen years later, the Skouras brothers had acquired 36 theatres in Missouri, later sold out to Warner Brothers, became bankrupt in the 1929 depression, subsequently signed up to manage 550 theatres in the West.

Today Skouras dominates 20th Century-Fox, George operates a chain of theatres in the East, while Charley, the oldest brother, is president of National Theatres and Fox West Coast Theatres, operating 1,500 movie houses.

I first got to know Charley Skouras when the Friendship Train was being organized. His theatre managers had been asked to tell the public about the idea behind the Friendship Train, and to that end Skouras called them to Los Angeles for a conference.

"But, boss," they protested, "we're just opening with 'Forever Amber.' How can we publicize too?"

"Which is more important," granted Skouras, "Forever Amber" or your country? "Forever Amber" can come later."

"Youth Month" in September
Today Skouras is heading the National Committee for Youth Month, backed by the Theatre Owners of America whose 10,000 movie houses will do their best to create more interest in youth activities, beginning in September.

"One trouble with most of us," says Skouras, "is that we talk too much about juvenile delinquency and not enough about juvenile achievements."

"When I go to the county fairs and see the prize cattle, chickens, hogs and all the things that the farm kids raise all by themselves, it gives me a big thrill. That's achievement. Those kids won't go wrong, because they've got pride in their work. And some of them are more self-reliant at 12 than adults three times their age."

"But kids in crowded cities have a tough time," pleads Skouras. "So we've got to provide incentives, give them a chance to want to achieve, to improve themselves."

"Most American boys are hero-worshippers. They don't want to be sideline sitters. Give them healthy outlets for their pent-up energy and they'll land on their feet."

"Sure, some kids go wrong—maybe two per cent. But when it comes to delinquency, it's the parents and our own communities which are the chief delinquents."

More Playgrounds
The aim of Youth Month is to promote more playgrounds, swimming pools, gymnasiums, and off-the-street boys clubs. In New York, for instance, there is no home or institution where a boy picked up by the police can be taken for the night except to a municipal lodginghouse or to a jail.

In the more crowded slums, it is Charley Skouras' ambition to have a playground for every three or four blocks.

"The average age of criminals in our penitentiaries is under 25," he points out. "And most of them are in there chiefly as a result of the cities' squalor."

During Youth Month, the Theatre Owners of America will show various short subjects on youth and juvenile delinquency, as well as special films and literature on community youth organization.

"Doing something for our youth is a lot more than a one-month job," explains Skouras. "This is only a start. But if we can make Youth Month in September really mean something, I hope the carry-through will continue the rest of the year. Giving youth a real stake in our democracy is the best way to make democracy live."

Public May Soon Get Story on Evidence Presented to Grand Jury About Employers' Disloyalty

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 16—Some day—perhaps as early as six months hence—the whole story will become known as what evidence was presented to the Federal Grand Jury about disloyalty among employees of the government and why no indictments were made. Until then, information from authoritative sources can be pieced together somewhat as follows:

1. The recent presentation of evidence was made contrary to the wishes of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which did not believe the case was sufficiently constructed to assure convictions and urged that more time be permitted for "undercover" investigation of certain witnesses.

2. The Federal Bureau of Investigation was not advised of what evidence was presented to the jury, which is contrary to practice in cases of such magnitude and nation-wide importance, especially since the work of inquiry by the F.B.I. was to continue.

3. Assistant Attorney General Quinn, who handled the case on instructions from Attorney General Clark, is believed to have wanted to request indictments but is said to have been overruled on the ground that convictions could not be obtained.

4. Although nobody outside the jury room is entitled to know what the individual Grand Jurors did or said, rumors have been current here that the Grand Jury wanted to indict and would have done so had there been any encouragement from the Department of Justice.

5. Senator Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the Senate Committee investigating the looserness in the government service, has publicly declared that the Grand Jury should have issued a public "presentation" describing the testimony and stating why no indictments were returned.

6. The claim of President Truman that the evidence was "insufficient" to bring indictments is now believed to be based chiefly on the inability of the prosecution to show that the information transmitted to spies actually went to the Russian Government or, if it did, that the Federal employees involved knowingly and willfully transmitted the information for that purpose. It is almost impossible to prove "intent" under present laws. This reveals a weakness which it is the duty of Congressional Committee to investigate and report on to Congress so strong legislation can be passed enabling the government to purge its rolls of the disloyal.

7. Refusal of the executive agencies of the government to cooperate with congressional committees has resulted in hearings in which some innocent persons have been injured, but it also is true that, by reason of the technicalities raised in connection with the grand jury investigation by the executive branch of the government itself, some guilty persons have escaped punishment.

8. Refusal of certain witnesses to answer a simple question as to whether they were members of the Communist party or whether they ever met the self-confessed spy, Miss Bentley, has raised doubts in the minds of members of congressional committees concerning the total innocence of some of those witnesses who now claim immunity from answering on constitutional grounds.

9. Examination of such evidence as has been made public by Miss Bentley—who testified under oath that her story has been checked by the F.B.I. and that the latter agency now has the $2,000 she received from the Russian government in reward for her spy work—does not reveal all that is known to the F.B.I. about the transmission of information in unauthorized ways by government employees.

10. The fact that the Russian government knew in advance through top-level channels that the Normandy invasion would be launched in June 1944 does not excuse the laxity of employees in transmitting that information to other governments they now claim were not known to them. The Nazis used Russians as "front" for their espionage work during the war, and the mere fact that an official was talking to a Russian did not mean he was talking to an "ally."

11. The failure of the Truman administration in the year 1943 to check on the "appeal" to high level of men who had been under scrutiny by the F.B.I. and had resigned from the Navy under circumstances that indicated it was not entirely voluntary on his part brings the problem up to date and poses the question as to why such an individual was not checked on the "appeal" to high level of men who had LAXITY IN DRESS

Many letters have urged me to comment on a situation that is becoming threatening. This letter—typical of the others—asks: "Can nothing be done about the present laxity of dress in summer resort hotel dining rooms? We have come for years to one of the most reputable hotels along the Atlantic Coast. This year I engaged our rooms for the season, without the privilege of giving them up, and find we are obliged to sit in the dining room with men in sleeveless shirts and shorts, the women in shorts and halter tops."

"I am revolted by the unpleasantness and object to the indecent example set for my own young people. When I protested to the proprietor, who always has been concerned about the comfort of his guests, he explained that he could not afford to offend so great a number of his patrons. Is there anything you can suggest to such proprietors who find themselves in the same position as this one?"

If it is possible for the proprietor to arrange for a separate basement dining room, then it would be simple to permit people in their beach clothes to eat there by themselves. Otherwise, the best he can do is to add this notice to those on the bedroom doors (noting hours of meals, etc.): "It is required that guests go into the dining room fully clothed."

If necessary, he could put a small notice in each guest's post-box: "A great number of complaints are being made against the impropriety of the undress of certain guests in the dining room, but it is hoped this offense will cease soon."

Concerning the Olive

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the proper way to remove an olive or cherry from a cocktail if no toothpick is served. I have seen people removing them with spoons and I also have seen people removing them with their fingers. I am sure it is not correct to gulp it down with the drink or to spit it out.

Answer: If the olive is small, it can be tipped easily from the glass into the mouth. Otherwise, it should be lifted with the fingers.

Do you know what "finger foods" are? Mrs. Post has written a leaflet, E-16, which gives table rules of importance. To obtain a copy, send 2 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE

to our loyal customers!

THE Congress of the United States has passed a bill regarding installment buying. It is very probable that President Truman will sign that bill. Under its terms, you will probably have to pay 20% down on furniture and 33 1/3% down on appliances.

TODAY at Standard you need only 10% down on either furniture or appliances—and you get up to 18 months to pay.

WE deem it a public service to call this important matter to your attention—to urge you to consider what furniture you will need this Fall, and to buy it NOW . . . now, when you can still pay only 10% down at Standard.

WE shall be happy to arrange evening appointments for your convenience. As always, we will hold goods free for later delivery.

WE feel that we owe it to our loyal customers to give you this information as promptly as we can.

COLONIALS CAPTURE PAIR FROM POUGHKEEPSIE

Twaalfskill Golfers Trounce Wiltwyck in Major Upset, 39½-23½

Kania, Rourke Win Palmer Gets Six Hits in Series

Rivals Return to Stadium Tonight

The Colonials are still in the Colonial League cellar pursuing the amazing Stamford Pioneers but it's hard to reconcile their flashy play of the last week with their lowly standing.

Over the week-end they invaded the lair of the second place Poughkeepsie Chiefs and scalped the Mizerskis twice in three starts for their sixth win in the last nine games. Why did that eight-game losing streak ever have to happen!

Kania Is Winner

Rocking Derenzo and our old friend Billy Ostrom for 14 hits, the Colonials won Saturday's game, 9 to 4, behind the fifty seven-hitter, tossed by Joe Kania. Mahlon "Red" Turner was a hard luck 2-0 loser to Eli Peterlic in yesterday's seven-inning opener, but in the nightcap the generosity of the Chief hurlers bordered on the obscene. They doled out 12 walks and the Colonials added seven timely hits to eke out a 10-9 decision. Danny Rourke was credited with his fourth straight win but needed help from Joe Kania and was neither sharp nor overpowering.

Saturday's victory spoiled "Chuck" Quimby's night for the Chiefs. The Kobesky-less Colonials (the base was out with an attack of indigestion) broke fast with four runs off Carmine Derenzo in the first inning. Billy Ostrom pitched six perfect innings of relief before the roof fell in on him in the eighth and ninth innings.

Turner Loses Squenaker

Failure to hit in the pinches (10 men left on base) cost the Colonials Sunday's opener. Turner yielded only five hits to Peterlic's six. The Chiefs scored on "The mauler's" walk, Derenzo's single and Lukasjuk's long fly in the third. In the sixth Chuck Quimby walked and scored the second run on a single by Leach and Morris. Kingston's best chance occurred in the sixth when Goldsmith's walk, a force play, Palmer's single and Lukasjuk's error loaded the bases with two out only to have Turner bounce into a force.

CO-ONIAL CAPERS: Both managers were hors de combat Saturday

Steve Mizerski, Chief pilot, is on the disabled list with a hand injury. Eddie Kobesky had an attack of indigestion and watched the game in civies. An upset stomach kept Norman Jennings out of the game.

Petty Pitcher For Tonight

Harry Petty, portly right hand veteran, will pitch for the Kingston Colonials against the Poughkeepsie Chiefs in tonight's game at municipal stadium. The Chiefs are expected to counter with their ace, Howie Atkinson.

gor out of the lineup yesterday. Chuck Quimby, the most popular Poughkeepsie player, received a $300 purse at his night. Nearly 100 Kingstonians were present Saturday night. Jackie Price, the famous Cleveland Indian comedian and stunt man, put on a terrific act for 45 minutes. His partner at Cleveland, Max Patkin, the contortionists, will be at the municipal stadium Saturday. Bud Palmer is hitting a lot better than most folks realize. He had six out of 12 over the week-end. Max Goldsmith played all three games in right field. Emil Sostre, former Bridgeport hurler, has been signed by the Colonials. The Cuban is a right hander. Gene Saragness, Kingston portlander, is one the disable list. Chiefs' pitching is in deplorable condition and it wouldn't be a surprise if the Port Chester Clippers, who are dirty rich with flingers, opened up a big lead before the regular season ends. Kingston still has a chance to grab that fourth spot. Let's scalp those Chiefs again tonight.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

Psychic Bidding Sets Contract Five Tricks

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

The Southern Appalachian tournament, which will be held at the George Vanderbilt Hotel in Asheville, N. C., August 27, 28 and 29, undoubtedly will establish new attendance records, judging by the advance reservations already in. I saw Mr. and Mrs. Murry Gross of Asheville, N. C., recently, and I asked him, "How many times have you played psychic bidding? The best answer to that, he said, was his own. He not only continues to use them himself, but he has his partner doing it, too.

Murry held the East cards. His partner's bid of two clubs was purely a psychic. North's bid of two diamonds was honest. Murry knew that his partner did not have a two-club bid, and he felt quite sure that West had spades. Just to carry the deception along, he bid two spades. With the spade suit well spotted, South promptly bid two no trump, and North, who had a strong hand, bid three no trump. The partner could not be criticized for going to three no trump.

There would be nothing to the story if West had opened his fourth best of his longest and strongest suit, but he did not. He knew that Murry's bid of two spades must be psychic, because South had gone to two no trump. Therefore, West decided that Murry probably had the clubs, and opened the club ten.

South held up for one round, but had to win the second club trick. Then he decided to stake everything on the diamond finesse. After all, it was a test who had bid the clubs. But the finesse failed. Murry's king, and he proceeded to cash his five remaining clubs, then led the eight of spades. Thus his partner was able to get in two spade tricks.

Murry and his partner cashed six clubs, a diamond and two spades. Instead of declarer taking nine tricks, his opponent took ten. The partner's bid of two spades, and this, says Mrs. Gross, is the reason why Murry will never be cured of psychic bidding.

As Pegler Sees It

hire a home built for his family by a contractor in the regular American way, will see the building tradesmen report a half-hour late and quit a half-hour early, on his payroll, at an average, nowadays, of about $3 an hour. For about 25 working days he will have to pay his fellow-unions about $30 a day for nothing. And that is an important reason why housing costs so much, so little of it is going up and why the dollar buys so little of food, clothing and automobiles.

No political candidate would dare to tell the electorate that union wages cancel union wages, but obviously they do. Roosevelt, the man who knew that none of his rivals would be stupid enough to point out this fallacy in his notorious benefits to the "working class."

Mr. Truman also told the farmers that they were getting heroic, and he could better have said, "ridiculous prices and put in a claim for his political reward when he told them they would be grateful to turn him down. They are smarter than wage-workers, having close daily experience with costs and return, but even farmers are subject to the same illusion of the beauty of printed money or bonds. In prohibition days the shrewdest citizens in paying $20 a fifth for their bootleg were hoping against their intelligence that it would prove to be imported McCoy just because the label said it was.

William Lemke, the rebel congressman from North Dakota, exploded in a "press-release" the day that Mr. Truman began his campaign with the speech opening the special session. In a discussion later he passed money to the original blamer for inflation back to Roosevelt when he said that the Roosevelt government printed 30 billions of dollars "where we had six billions before" and used much of this greenback money to make millionaires of Henry Kaiser and his like. Mr. Lemke said, and truly, that Kaiser's profits were based on the costs, but these costs consisted of inflationary wages paid to unskilled and indolent shipyard hands, much of it at overtime rates. Of course, the inflated price of the steel and other factors that went into Kaiser's boats also were bases of his percentage of profit.

But, however well Mr. Kaiser may have done financially out of the war, Mr. Lemke, with the true instinct of the politician, ducked the damning fact that these wages were artificially boosted and for no purpose but to bring the union bosses and, of course, a horde of lay bums without skill or conscience or the intelligence to give a damn whether they lived under a dictator, or which one, and when the war was over. The recurrent claim of heroic toll by "labor," heard less often now that "our brave boys" are back and have learned what went on in their absence, is only a reminder of disgraceful greed and irresponsibility.

Pitching Horseshoes
By Billy Rose

Last year the warden of San Quentin wrote and asked whether my column was available for the prison newspaper which the inmates get out every other Friday. He said my pieces had created something of a stir in stir, and were being passed from cell to cell. Touched and flattered, I showed this letter to Eleanor. "It figures," was her not so cryptic comment.

During the year that this column has been appearing in the SAN QUENTIN NEWS I've received many letters from "the boys." Some were complimentary, others chided me for technical mistakes in the English pieces I occasionally write. But the other day a prisoner sent a story along with his letter. He said he had no idea where the yarn originated, but that it was the favorite fable of the gents in pokey.

New or old, it's an interesting story. Let me try it out on you for a while. . . .

Some years ago, Eddie Michaels, a skinny dope peddler, was put in the same cell with a lifer named Mike Shasta who had killed a man in a pool room argument. The warden's usual procedure—as a rule, murderers are isolated to keep them from inspiring the small fry to bigger and better misdeeds. But in Shasta's case, the warden was willing to chance it. Mike was a big, easy-going guy, resigned to his lifetime term and popular with the prisoners.

Mike and Eddie hit it off fine from the start. They both liked to play checkers, and after "lights out" they would whisper and puff each other's cigarettes. This went on for three years, and after breathing down each other's neck for a thousand days and nights, they were as close as men without blood ties can get.

Came the day when, with time off for good behavior, Eddie had only ten more months to serve. He had been a model prisoner and at the time our story starts, he was expecting to be summoned before the parole board any day.

But when the warden sent for him, it wasn't the good news he had been looking for. "Eddie," the warden said, "this comes as a big disappointment to me. It seems the Topeka police have been looking for you for killing an officer six years ago. Somebody turned you in, and the Governor of Kansas has signed the extradition papers. They're coming for you tomorrow."

Eddie knew that cop killers usually get the full treatment. He walked slowly back to his cell, thinking hard all the way. When he was alone with Mike, he said, "My parole's out. I once killed a cop in Topeka and somebody has ratted on me. It means a long trial and then the chair."

"They don't use electricity in Kansas," said Mike. "That makes it worse," said Eddie. "I've heard of plenty of cases where the rope didn't work the first time."

That night when Eddie came back from the rock pile, he was walking stiff-legged. He explained to the guard that he had hit his knee on a rock. But when he got to his cell, he rolled up his pants leg and unstrapped the heavy metal end of a pick. Mike watched him uneasily. "What's the plan?" he asked. "When the Kansas cops come tomorrow," said Eddie, "I'm going to slug it out with them."

"You ain't got a chance," said Mike. "Even if you get past the guards, you've got five locked doors and a fifteen-foot wall." "This ain't no escape," said Eddie. "As soon as I pile into the guards, I want you to sneak behind me, grab the pick and hit me over the head. Be sure and hit hard so I don't wake up again—I don't want to do any waiting in a hospital. That way, I'll cheat the rope and you'll get a pardon, and at least one of us will get something out of the deal."

Mike said he wasn't interested in hitting a pal over the head with a pick. But Eddie kept pleading, and finally Mike agreed. At 6, when the Kansas cops arrived, Eddie put up a good show. He cursed when Mike wrenched the pick out of his hand, and the expression that twisted his lips as his friend crunched in his skull could only have been recognized as a smile by the lifer.

Eddie's figuring, belly, and after the body was carted away, the warden sent for Mike and told him he would personally bring the matter to the attention of the parole board and, if necessary, to the Governor himself. And that afternoon, Mike's picture was in every paper on the West Coast.

But while Mike was waiting for his pardon to come through, the convicts gave him a bad time. They accused him of being a flake, a double-crosser, a guy who had murdered his pal. When he tried to explain, they walked away. Mike told himself it didn't matter—that soon he'd have the whole world to talk to. He could walk into a bar, buy a glass of beer and pass the time of day with the bartender. But it was no good. For the first time in his life, he felt friendliness.

Finally the day came when the prison doors opened. With a new suit of clothes and a five-dollar bill, the old-timer headed for Fresno where his mother lived. But he never got there. At a lonely waystation, he left the train, wandered into a nearby woods and hanged himself.

Hurley Carnival Is Successful
The Hurley Fire Company, aided by some of the best weather of the summer, concluded its three-night first annual carnival Saturday night and counted the open-air fund-raising festivities one of the most successful events in its five-year history.

The committee in charge today expressed its sincere thanks to Hurley residents and those of the surrounding area for their support.

Final reports have not been received on the amount raised for fireman's purposes in the community.

English is Philippine's Working Language
Manila, (AP)—This is the country where the President, Elpidio Quirino, makes his speeches in English and has to have them translated into the local dialects, unless he is in his native northern Luzon. Luis Taruc, leader of the Hukbalahap peasant army and a congressman, makes his most effective speeches in his native Tagalog, the language of central Luzon. But he writes his speech outlines in English. This, he says, is because he thinks better in English, having been educated in that language.

Fire Company to Give Demonstration Drill

A demonstration fire drill, involving the use of about 3,000 feet of hose, will be given by the Mt. Marion-Ruby Fire Company Tuesday at 7 p. m. The drill will be under the supervision of Deputy Fire Chief Harold Sanford of the Kingston Fire Department.

The hose will be laid from the Plattekill Creek at the bathing beach to the Mt. Marion Inn at the four corners on the Glasco Turnpike. 2,600 feet of 2½-inch hose will be used to convey the water from the source to the "fire" and two lines of 1½-inch hose will be used to apply water to the buildings "threatened."

The test will be made with the two pumps of the Mt. Marion-Ruby Company to determine if they are capable of furnishing an adequate supply of water to fight fires at this location. In addition to these two pieces of apparatus, the pumps from the Centerville Fire Department and one from the village of Saugerties will participate. A third piece of apparatus will be used at the scene of the "fire" to provide necessary pressure if two pieces prove inadequate.

The drill comes as the climax of the training school which Deputy Chief Sanford has been conducting throughout the summer months at Mt. Marion and Ruby to teach the rudiments of fire fighting to the volunteer firemen of these communities. It will be staged as a test of the Mutual Aid System of the Ulster County Firemen's Association, which system provides for assistance by other companies to communities which do not have sufficient equipment and apparatus. All interested firemen and other persons are invited to witness the drill.
